PRIOR ART

A black and white line drawing of a stylized, wavy, textured surface, possibly representing a biological structure like a leaf or a piece of fabric. The left side of the image features a series of overlapping, rounded, wavy shapes, each filled with a dense stippled pattern. These shapes are arranged in a vertical column, creating a sense of depth and texture. To the right of this textured area, there is a series of parallel diagonal lines that extend from the top right towards the bottom left, suggesting a flat surface or a different material. The overall composition is a vertical, elongated shape with a complex, organic texture on the left and a more geometric, linear pattern on the right.
